EFFECTIVENESS OF COMPUTER ASSISTED TEACHING ON SUICIDAL PREVENTION AMONG YOUNGER ADULTS AT SELECTED COLLEGES IN THIRUVALLUR DISTRICT.

Jeniferlisi J*

Indira College of Nursing, Thiruvallur, Tamilnadu, India

ABSTRACT

Introduction: Suicide is the most leading cause death among younger adults. It account for 35 % of recorded death in India. In this study a pre-experimental one group pretest and posttest design was undertaken to assess the effectiveness of computer assisted on suicidal prevention among younger adults at selected nursing colleges in Thiruvallur district. In this study, 60 samples were selected by using non- probability convenience sampling technique. Self administered questions were used to collect the data findings of this study revealed that the paired 't' test value is 8.71. Which is significantly higher than the table value of 4.05 at $p \leq 0.05$ level. Which shows that computer assisted teaching was effective, there is a statistically high significant difference found between pre and post-test level of knowledge regarding suicidal prevention among younger adults.

INTRODUCTION

India has the largest youth population in worldwide. The youth constitute 22 percent of India's population. The word younger adult is derived from the Latin word adultus, which means "to grow into adulthood" it is a time of moving from the immaturity of childhood into the maturity of adulthood. Worldwide, suicide is among the top five causes of death. Suicide is the fourth leading cause of death in 15- 29 years old globally in 2019.

Younger adult is a stressful developmental period filled with major changes -such as, body changes, changes in thoughts, and changes in feelings, strong feelings of stress, confusion, fear, uncertainty, as well as pressure to succeed, these reasons may influence a teenager's problem solving and decision making abilities. Now a days suicide prevention among adolescents and younger adults is very important and high priority.

Every year over 2 million high school students start colleges. These students are steps into their younger adulthood and taking the next step in their life. The period in the human lifespan in which full physical and intellectual maturity have been attained.

According to 2021 data from the National Crime Record Bureau, around 13,089 students committed suicide in India. That's one student every hour. Despite of one of the most advanced states in India, Maharashtra had the highest student death, followed by Madhya Pradesh is second and TamilNadu has third highest number of student committed suicide in India around 1,246 students died by suicides.

A college is the place where the younger adult spends almost half of the day. This is especially important if a student notices or has a gut feeling that another student is struggling. Suicide prevention starts with recognizing the warning signs and taking them seriously. Also, nowadays suicidal behaviour becomes common in adolescents and younger adults and number of suicide cases and suicidal attempts increasing gradually providing knowledge of suicide prevention can helps the students to identify and seeking helps to save someone's life.

A STUDY TO ASSESS THE EFFECTIVENESS OF VIDEO ASSISTED TEACHING ON KNOWLEDGE AND PRACTICE REGARDING PARTOGRAPH INTERPRETATION AMONG NURSING STUDENTS IN SELECTED NURSING INSTITUTIONS

Mary Teresa

Indira College of Nursing, Thiruvallur, Tamilnadu, India.

ABSTRACT

Introduction: Partograph is the vital and gold standard tool to monitor the maternal and fetal well-being throughout labour. Nurses play most significant role to monitor the progress of the labour and helps to identify, report and intervene the abnormal labor. Methodology: The research approach used for this study was quantitative approach and the research design was pre-experimental one group pre-test and post-test design. 60 nursing students were selected for this study by using purposive sampling technique. Data was collected with the help of Self-administered questionnaire on partograph. Video assisted teaching programme was conducted on partograph interpretation among participants. After 1 week, post test was conducted to evaluate the effectiveness of video assisted teaching programme. Result: The study aggregated that the effectiveness of video assisted teaching on level of knowledge. In, pre-test mean value was 13.78 with S.D 2.95 were greater than post-test mean value was 20.36 with S.D 1.63. The calculated 't' value was 16.312 which indicates that it was significant at $p < 0.0001$ level. In the regard to the effectiveness of video assisted teaching on level of practice, the pre-test, mean value was 9.3 with S.D 2.25 were greater than post-test mean value was 20.58 with S.D 2.14. The calculated 't' value was 47.688 which indicates that it was significant at $p < 0.001$ level. The relationship between the level of knowledge and practice were found to have positive correlation $r = 0.88$ at the level of $p < 0.05$. Conclusion: The video assisting teaching is one of the most effective medium of instruction for imparting knowledge to the nursing students.

INTRODUCTION

A partograph is one of the vulnerable appropriate technologies in use for improved monitoring of labour progress. This is through enabling clinicians (Midwives & Doctor) to plot examination findings from their assessment on the partograph. The belief that its use was applied in developed and developing settings led into introduction worldwide. A number of common partograph designs incorporate an "ALERT LINE" and "ACTION LINE". It is critical in prevention maternal and perinatal MORBIDITY and MORTALITY.

Globally, there were an estimated number of 287,000 maternal deaths or a maternal mortality ratio (MMR) of 2020 maternal deaths per 100,000 live births in the year 2021.

Worldwide, 85% (245,000) the majority of maternal death and complication attributable to obstructed and prolonged labour could be prevented by cost-effective and affordable health intervention like the use of partograph.

The paper partograph is the most commonly available labour-monitoring tool, used by health professionals and recommended by WHO for active labour.

EFFECTIVENESS OF GUIDED IMAGINARY TECHNIQUE ON STRESS AMONG SENIOR CITIZENS AT SELECTED OLD AGE HOMES IN THIRUVALLUR DISTRICT

Prasana S

Indira College Of Nursing, Thiruvallur, Tamilnadu, India

ABSTRACT

A pre-experimental study one-group pre-test and post-test design was undertaken to assess the effectiveness of guided imaginary technique on stress among senior citizens at selected old age homes in Thiruvallur district. A convenience sampling technique was used to select the 60 senior citizens. A structured standardized DASS questionnaire were used to assess the level of stress. after the intervention of guided imaginary technique among senior citizens in old age homes the effectiveness was assessed by descriptive analysis and inferential statistics the finding of the study revealed that, in the senior citizens, the pre-test stress score having more in stress (70.4%) and less score in depression (58.5%). Overall they having 64.43% of DASS score and the post-test stress score having moderate score in depression (32.4%) and less score in stress (30.0%), the difference between pre-test and post-test stress score was large and it was statically significant by using paired t-test $t=15.76$ at the level of significant ($p=00.001$) which indicated that there is significant difference between stress reduction score among senior citizens. Thus, the guided imaginary technique was significantly effective to decrease the stress among senior citizens with the paired t-test score.

A PRE-EXPERIMENTAL STUDY TO ASSESS THE EFFECTIVENESS OF STRUCTURED TEACHING PROGRAM ON KNOWLEDGE REGARDING EXTRA CORPOREAL OXYGENATION THERAPY AMONG NURSING STUDENTS AT SELECTED COLLEGE IN THIRUVALLUR

Issac Leela Rani

Indira College of Nursing, Thiruvallur, Tamilnadu, India.

ABSTRACT

Introduction: Extra corporeal membrane oxygenation also known as extra corporeal life support, in an extra corporeal technique of providing prolonged cardiac and respiratory support to persons whose heart and lungs are unable to provide an adequate amount of gas (O₂, Co₂) exchange or perfusion to sustain life. ECMO machine it pumps and oxygenates a patient's blood outside the body, allowing the patient and lungs to rest and promotes healing. Methodology: The research approach used in the study was quantitative approach using pre- experimental one group and post-test research design. Samples were selected based on sample inclusion criteria. 50 samples were selected with purposive sampling technique. The pre-test level of knowledge on toxic shock syndrome among adolescent girls was assessed by structured questionnaire which took 20 minutes. The interventions (teaching) were given through PPT, Flashcards, Charts, Pictures and Videos carried over by lecture cum discussion method on various aspects of toxic shock syndrome for 30 minutes. The post-test data was collected from the students with the same structured questionnaire after 7 days through Google form. Results: The findings revealed that the effectiveness of structured teaching program on level of knowledge regarding the toxic shock syndrome among adolescent girls report and findings revealed that the pre-test mean knowledge score was 16.98 with the standard deviation of 8.6904 and in post-test the mean knowledge score was 34.08 with the standard deviation of 17.26. The calculated paired 't' test value of $t = 10.20$ showed a high statistically significant difference between pre-test and post-test ($p > 0.005$) which proved that structured teaching program was effective in improving the knowledge regarding the toxic shock syndrome among adolescent girls. Hence the hypothesis stated that "there is no significant association between demographic variables" Conclusion: The investigator concluded that structured teaching program can be used as an intervention in improving the knowledge among nursing students.

EFFECTIVENESS OF SELF INSTRUCTIONAL MODULE ON KNOWLEDGE OF CARE OF PRE TERM AMONG POST NATAL MOTHERS

Dilli Rani S*

Indira College of Nursing, Thiruvallur, Tamilnadu, India.

ABSTRACT

A Quantitative research approach was adopted to assess the effectiveness of self instructional module on knowledge among post natal mothers at selected hospitals in chennai . A non - propability convenient sampling technique was used to select the 30 samples from selected hospitals. Findings of the study revealed that, in the group, calculated paired 't' test value of $t = 22.287$ was found statistically highly significant at $p < 0.001$ level . post natal mothers have average kwlgedge regarding care of pre term baby . There was a significant increase in knowledge of the participants after administration of self instructional module.

INTRODUCTION

Child is the foundation of family and wealth of nation. New born is the important and precious personality of the every home. All family members will give him or her warm welcome and delegate care [1]. Among the major child health challenges facing the world at the turn of the new millennium is the problem of high neonatal mortality. The global burden of new born deaths occurs in developed countries. The biggest neonatal mortality rates are seen in countries of South Asia resulting in almost two million new born deaths in the region each year with India contributing 60% of (1.2 million) of it [2].

Globally about 2.5 million preterm babies are born each year consisting of 17% of all live births. Approximately 16 to 18 % neonates born in developing world are of pre term babies born before 37 weeks of gestation and extremely pre term babies born at 28 to 32 weeks, approximately one third dies before stabilization of in the first 12 hours [3].

Based on the Maslow's hierarchical theory the basic needs of every individual are love, security and affection. All of which can be expressed through the most world fashioned and natural way of cuddling. The baby throughout the nine-months of period in the mother's womb recognizes this sensation of being cuddled in the environment of the womb .this sensation and feeling of security is ended prematurely in the case of the preterm infants, since they have two face extra uterine life before time since the ore term infant need more cuddling and security, to adjusting the extra uterine environment. All the neonates have a certain needs that must be met for them to thrive and take their place in society. There are nine universal needs of the new born that is a clear airway, established respiration, warmth, protection from hemorrhage, protection from infection, identification and observation, nourishment and fluids, love-parent attachment [4].

New born care often receives less then optimum attention. Although over the past 25 years. Child survival programs have helped to reduce the death rate among children under age 5, the biggest impact has been on reducing mortality from diseases that affect infants and children more than one month old. As a result, the vast majority of infant deaths occur during the first month of life. When a child's risk of death is nearly of fifteen times
